

Manage Sales & Marketing With iQ office.

The following document outlines the various tools we offer users to stay in front of prospective customers and build their passive pipeline. All of the tools are manageable through iQ office. Users can stay in front of their prospects through developing drip (email) marketing campaigns, keeping their blogs updated with fresh content, managing their listings on their web sites, sending flyers based on information submitted by referrals or gathered by Property Watch--all from iQ office. We suggest building a passive pipeline by offering prospects up to date information and educational material.
